Campus Media Under Study

An ad hoc committee charged with exploring the feasibility of publishing a student publication has been appointed by President Horn.

Of the opinion that the student publications do not operate in a coordinated and that there is great deal of overlap and duplication," he said, "I further feel that the policies and practices of the student publications leave a great deal to be desired," he continued.

He asked the committee, which is headed by Dr. Reuben Mehler, to include the student radio in its study.

Former Columbia Prof Is New Library School Head

Dr. Jon R. Ashton, lecturer in library science at the Columbia University school of library science since last year, has been appointed dean of the new URI Graduate Library School, it was announced last week by Dr. Francis H. Horn, URI president.

The Board of Trustees of State Colleges approved the establishment of the school last Oct. 3 effective with the 1963-64 academic year starting July 1. Dr. Ashton's appointment also becomes effective then.

President Horn named a committee under the chairmanship of Prof. Francis P. Allen, URI librarian, to seek candidates for the deanship. Mr. Allen said he contacted 22 recommended candidates, interviewing five of them.

A graduate of Washington State

University in 1936 with the B.A. degree, and the M.A. in 1937, Dr. Ashton received the Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin in 1944, and the M.A. in Library Science from Wisconsin in 1951.

Dr. Ashton has been an assistant professor of library science at the University of Wisconsin, head librarian at the University of North Dakota, and editor of the "North Dakota Quarterly."

He was appointed professor and head of the department of library science at Northern Illinois University in 1959, and the next year was named general adviser to the chancellor of libraries, associate director of libraries, associate professor of literature, and acting director of libraries at the University of Puerto Rico.

IFC Prosecutes Frat For Drinking

Phi Mu Delta was fined $25 and placed on social probation for one semester by the URI Interfraternity Council last Monday night for violating established University social rules.

The action resulted from a complaint by the Dean of Men's office against the fraternity for holding an unregistered, off-campus party Mar. 2 during which alcoholic beverages were served.

In making its recommendation to the council, the IFC's executive committee originally asked for a $50 fine and one semester's probation for what it called "bringing unfavorable publicity upon the University and the entire campus fraternity system."

In voting on the recommendation, the IFC decided to lighten the fine because of Phi Mu's past good record and because of the fact that "no previous planning of the party was involved, therefore arrangements could not be made with the University social committee."

Theologian Will Speak

Dr. Herbert Gezork, president of Andover Newton Theological School will speak on "Christian Ethics for the Nuclear Age" at URI tomorrow at 7 p. m. in the Memorial Union.

Chafee Visits URI Tonight

Gov. John H. Chafee will speak at a coffee hour sponsored by the URI Young Republicans tonight at 7 in the Union lounge. This will be the governor's first visit to the campus since the URI-PC game in January.

Mr. Chafee's talk will be on a subject of his choice, but he is expected to comment on affairs of interest to the student body and the campus community in general.

Ernest Drew, president of the Young Republicans, has said that members of the audience will be allowed to question the governor on any matter they consider pertinent during a discussion which will follow his talk.

Student Senate Nominees State Views On Senate Obligations

John Gonsalves

At the present time, the URI Student Senate is in a very important transitional state. The officers who are elected to serve in the academic year 1963-64 should be chosen with great discretion. The new officers must work together. I strongly feel that no one person can efficiently control the student affairs without a strong executive committee.

James H. Clingham

I feel the best way to express my thoughts on the duties of the President of the Student Senate is to outline some general areas of thought. This does not include every stand I have taken in my platform, but I feel this covers the most important campus problems today.

Gerald E. McDowell

In the coming academic year the Student Senate will begin a wholly new experiment. It will attempt to represent and lead the student body as a whole rather than continue its present role as a mere forum for conflicting undergraduate interests. The smaller, more workable body will operate under the assumption that the Senate should do more than pass club constitutions and wrangle over student tax allocations.

Do you think this year's Student Senate officers should be popularly elected?

Bill Schachter: "I think the old system (election by Student Senate members) is fine. Student-wide Senate elections are more of a popularity contest than anything else."

Pete Skeffington: "Campus-wide elections give all the students a chance to voice their opinions on Senate officers instead of leaving it up to the delegates. The popular vote gives a better representation of what the students' feelings are."

Jerry Sunshine: "The elections should be campus-wide to give students the chance to participate more fully in their government and to elect who they want to head it. Leaving the Senate to decide for itself who the new officers will be actually just leaving it to the minority."

Jim Votta: "I think the new Student Senate officers should be elected campus-wide since they will be serving after the new constitution (calling for popular election) takes effect. Such an election gives the whole student body a chance to decide who the Senate president and other officers will be."

Steve Mignone: "The Student Senate elections should definitely be campus-wide. Although it would be a popularity contest, it would be one in which qualified candidates would participate since they would have to be nominated by the Senate."

In This Week's Mail

Dear Editor,

In the healing arts a malignant cell is recognized as a terribly evil thing, not only in itself, but also of its influence on the healthy surrounding cells. In short, this one malignant cell, if left unchecked and not cut out, will bring inevitable doom as it spreads to its normal surroundings, culminating in the destruction of a vastly complex organism. This organism I wish to discuss is the community of the University of Rhode Island and the malignancy in this case is masquerading in the guise of a blue uniform studded with brass buttons.

Two weeks ago on the afternoon of Friday, March 15, I was an eye witness to the following incident.

A police cruiser, a siren screaming, screeched to a halt in front of the Union. Out jumped a rotund fellow clothed in blue, sporting brass buttons and in his haste to "get his man" neglected to secure the emergency brake so that the now driverless cruiser commenced to roll down the street. Fortunately or unfortunately an onlooker, at the risk of arrest, jumped in and stopped the car.

The "officer" then proceeded to a student who was walking into the Union and ordered him to show him his I-D card which he promptly did. The student was next ordered into the cruiser in typical Gestapo tactics. Not living in a police state, said student obviously felt that this was not justified in view of the "crime" he had committed, which turned out to be the great felony of momentarily parking his car in front of the Union while he ran in to check a Treasurer's report. A companion had since removed the car while the intripid capture was in progress. The "officer" then grabbed the student and started pushing him toward the cruiser. The student resisted as any self-respecting individual would have done, but our friend in blue persisted and finally succeeded in persuading the student into the cruiser using the typical police brutality tactics. I also heard the "officer" scream at the student saying, "You're nothing on this campus." If a student is nothing at a University and an unnecessary entity as this servant claims, then how does the University propose to stay in existence?

I submit that the "policeman" mentioned above is sick just as the members of the Gestapo under Himmler were sick and should be destroyed just as the Gestapo under Himmler were destroyed before the sickness has a chance to spread to the point where it can no longer be stopped. This is an intolerable situation in the same sense as a malignancy is intolerable.

Either the administration is ignorant of the above situation or it is cognizant of it but refuses to do anything about it. In either case, both are bad.

I, as an individual, cannot do much alone, but I am prepared to organize a group large enough that it will be able to do something about it if enough individuals so desire. If this doesn't work I do plan to take up a collection so that I may buy our local gendarmerie arm bands with the swastika printed on them so that unknowing individuals may be warned of the behavior which might be expected from the mentioned somewhat demented and inadequate persons.

DAVID R. MANVAN

Dear Editor,

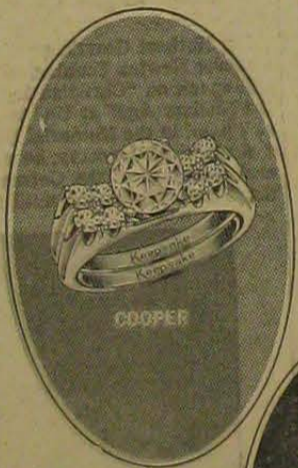

Here we go again, criticism. It seems that lately all we have been hearing is criticism made about URI and US. It looks like everything we do or show is sinful and immoral. The Providence Journal once more indicts URI and this time it's the movies.

I don't know, maybe I am too broad-minded or others are too narrow-minded. Tell me, what is so immoral about "Never on Sunday"? Because they heard the word "prostitutes" the movie all of a sudden becomes immoral and not fit to be shown to 19- and 20-year-old kids. I wonder when we will be considered to be grown-ups. "Never on Sunday" can be considered as a psychological movie, but of course no one bothers to look that deep. The movie teaches us that once a person adopts a way of living, you can't change that person, especially if she or he is happy. Personally, one thing that I enjoyed most of all was the music. In fact, I saw the movie three times because of the music or Boonookia (name of the type of music that was played).

Wake up, you men and women! If we don't watch ourselves, soon they will be taking the few privileges that we have left.

The URI Interfraternity Council has decided to operate a Community Service Project the weekend before Greek Week (April 20 and 21). Each fraternity will be asked to volunteer. The entire campus community is invited to submit ideas or suggestions to the project committee's chairman, Joe Rocchio, in Chi Phi.

The New Slate

Next Monday evening, the URI Student Senate will elect a new slate of officers to serve in the ensuing school year.

We are confident that our study senators will make wise choices in picking their new leaders but we would like to remind them of the importance of choosing mature, responsible, student oriented people during these times of "changing" student government.

The new slate and especially the new Student Senate president will have a big job in store in organizing and instituting the changes that this present body has made.

The new president of the Student Senate must be an aggressive, dynamic, representative of the student body in dealing with the administration and outside groups. His primary concern must be in defending and supporting student's rights, freedoms and interests. He must be student oriented in that he is constantly aware of existing pressures but does his utmost in the face of these pressures to champion student wishes. Secondly—and only if time permits—he should concern himself with the politics of national student government and act as a spokesman for his body in regard to national affairs affecting students.

He must strive for a workable student-administrative relationship to make the university a better institution for higher learning and also a more desirable place for cultural and social activity. But he should feel no hesitancy in blasting the administration when time comes that they act unjustly and in poor taste. He must be cognizant of student opinion and should state these opinions frankly and constantly in dealing with groups, for he is truly the spokesman of the student body.

The rest of the slate to be elected next Monday should be chosen on their ability and interest in student government and working for student government. Team effort is vital to the success of any organization. No candidate should be chosen solely on popularity and good looks as would sometimes seem the case. Let us exercise mature judgment to insure the best possible group of executive officers for this new senate to insure everyone that a most effective job will be done.

With its revised constitution the new URI Student Senate will act as a more vital link between students and administration than it has ever been before. Student senators have as their responsibility a duty to insure good student government.

Think about it—choose wisely—and vote intelligently.

What's The Problem?

Whether or not 'Never on Sunday' was morally objectionable to the president of this University—or 'La Dolce Vita' is morally objectionable to a Rhode Island state senator is not the question of the moment.

(N.B. 'Never on Sunday' is a condemned movie. According to the Legion of Decency, "a condemned film is considered to be one, because of theme or treatment, has been described by the Holy Father as 'positively bad.'" 'La Dolce Vita' is a movie that is under special classification. The Legion of Decency gives special classification to "certain films which, while not morally offensive in themselves, require caution and some analysis and explanation as a protection to the uninformed against wrong interpretations and false conclusions.")

The question is—shall films morally objectionable to certain factions of the campus community be shown here? We feel that they should. Although there are over 2,000 Catholics attending URI, we feel that tastes and entertainment needs of the rest of the campus community must be taken into consideration.

The Catholic chaplain has a duty to his flock to inform them of the view of the Catholic church in regard to condemned movies. The practitioners of Catholicism also have a moral obligation to avoid this type of entertainment.

But at the same time, those who practice other beliefs and feel there is nothing wrong with viewing movies that, according to the Legion of Decency, 'condone, approve, and teach immorality' should be allowed to attend these movies freely.

We cannot see a necessity for alarm or a

Senate investigation. If we were to follow the reasoning of some groups—we might be led to believe that the public movie theaters should not be allowed to show questionable movies because of the large percentage of Catholics in the state. Anyone should readily admit that the college student is just as intelligent and has the same rights as the general patron in seeing and choosing movies.

Every individual, when informed of right and wrong, must ultimately decide if right is right and wrong is wrong, and then whether or not to act in a right or wrong manner. Removing the occasion of sin only prolongs the actual sin—once the decision is made—but in the long run does nothing to prevent it.

Many have said that the announcement of condemnation would draw larger crowds to the movie. This might have been the case in a public movie theater—but when 'Never on Sunday' was shown here—the attendance was normal. We tend to believe, after observation and discussion with members of the student body, that many would have attended this movie had they not known it was condemned but avoided it because it was condemned and they were made aware of this by the Catholic chaplain. We are also sure that some might have attended merely to see a condemned movie—but we tend to believe—these were a lusty few.

The morality of youth, especially college students, is not as low as some would lead us to believe. The college student, for the most part, is a mature, responsible individual. We doubt that the showing of condemned movies here will offer any serious moral problem to the serious Catholic.

Fraternity Blazers

As you know, most fraternities have either dark blue or black blazers. One fraternity, however, started some time ago to wear a maroon blazer—obviously an attempt at association with that speedy sorority nearby—but from what we understand it didn't work. That's right. They cut their hair too short.

He is 20.6 years old. Twelve chances out of a hundred, he is married. He spent $68 in refurbishing his back-to-campus wardrobe. It's an even bet that he owns or has full-time use of an automobile. He makes a point of being well groomed and has already accumulated much of the gear of the good life.

He is Joe College, 1963.

This is some of the information that was released recently about male undergraduates in a study made by PLAYBOY magazine. It is possible to list more statistics, but they are all cut and dry, and who really cares about the "vital" statistics of male undergraduates.

Next week will be the last week that this column will appear here and it will also be the last time that this reporter will have an opportunity to give you his clear and unbiased interpretation of campus happenings. You can be sure that I will miss being unbiased and clear as much as the sororities will miss this weekly expedition into soul searching.

Sophisticated

Someone recently accused me of being too sophisticated in writing this type of column. I agree that I could have occasionally been more blunt and called an animal—an animal instead of a "Ploughboy", but—in the last analysis—it wouldn't have been healthy.

Sum-Sum- Summertime

Now that Spring has sprung—everyone who is alive looks forward to warmer weather and the beach-parties. A beach-party is unlike any other adventure in the world of college. Actually the most exciting part of a beach-party is the romantics involved. It's secret, it's daring, it's refreshing, in fact it's just like stepping into an ad for Newport filter cigarettes!

Keystone Kops

All year we have been exceptionally kind to the campus police—because—let's face it—they aren't of the same "keystone" variety that existed before the new chief came here. But, I was thumbing through another school newspaper the other day—and borrowed this song—and I present it in reminiscence of the good old days.

(sing to the tune to the John B.)

1. The campus 'fuzz' and me,
Eye to eye we cannot see,
'Round campus grounds I can't roam,
Scheming all night,
Got into a fight,
I feel so break-up,
Why don't they go home?

Chorus

2. Take away the chief's stars,
Give somebody else the bars,
The chieftan is unfair to me.
Make him go home,
Make him go home,
Make him go home,
I feel so break-up,
Why don't he go home?
3. Well, the first sarg, he got sunk,
Mud came into the trunk,
Tow truck had to come and pull him away
Now the chief returns
He makes my heartburn
I feel so break-up,
Why don't he go home? (Chorus)

VIEWPOINT

by STEPHEN B. ROSENBERG
President—Student Senate

Congratulations are in order to the Challenge Speaker Series on its most recent presentation. On Monday of this week Challenge presented the three presidential and the two vice-presidential candidates of the Student Senate in a program entitled "The Future Role of Student Government at URI."

The candidates were offered the opportunity to present their views on student government and to answer questions posed by a most interested audience. One of the great lessons learned by the five candidates, it would seem, is that one in public position must be fully acquainted with issues at hand.

The value of such a program is immeasurable. Not only are the candidates able to present their views on pertinent issues, but they are also subject to rather intense examination on the part of the students they wish to represent. The candid discussion period that followed undoubtedly gave the nominees a taste of the type of political dialogue in which, if elected, they shall be engaged during their year of office.

The presidency of the Student Senate involves much more than "chairing" a meeting or spending time with "the administration". Prior to my being elected to office last year this was my mistaken conception of the duties of that office. I hope that the present candidates are not suffering under any delusions regarding the obligations involved. I have learned from experience that the position I have held is a difficult but extremely rewarding one.

Perhaps the most important principle of which the new president must be aware is that student government by definition is constantly in transition. Thus, continuity of purpose is more important than individual leadership. This fact must be immediately recognized if student government at this university is to properly mature.

The new president must realize that he may not see in the time of his administration the fruition of all his endeavors. His enthusiasm, nevertheless, must never be diminished; he must always be ready to act and to express himself.

Bazaar Nets About $800

The annual Blue Key Bazaar last Friday night climaxed a week of collecting for the URI Campus Chest by adding approximately $800 to the fund for worthwhile charities.

Paula Heister, who was sponsored by Phi Mu Delta fraternity, was named campus queen.

Sigma Chi and Peck Hall won first prize in the men's and women's divisions for collecting the most money. Sigma Chi's popular pie-throwing booth brought in $35 for the cause, and Peck's plate-breaking contest made $30.60.

The total amount collected during this year's drive is not yet available, but student leaders had hoped to raise $2,000, twice the amount collected last year.

Does a man really take unfair advantage of women when he uses Mennen Skin Bracer?

All depends on why he uses it.
Most men simply think Menthol-Iced Skin Bracer is the best after-shave lotion around. Because it cools rather than burns. Because it helps heal shaving nicks and scrapes. Because it helps prevent blemishes.
So who can blame them if Bracer's crisp, long-lasting aroma just happens to affect women so remarkably?
Of course, some men may use Mennen Skin Bracer because of this effect.
How intelligent!

During the period of social probation, the fraternity will be permitted to continue with its full social schedule, but a second violation of University rulings during that time will bring reconsideration of the first infraction as well.
In considering a complaint by the Dean of Men against Phi Sigma Kappa for an unregistered off-campus party Mar. 2 during which alcoholic beverages were served, the IFC decided to delay action on the executive committee's recommendation until a special meeting next Monday night.
The committee has recommended one month's social restriction and one semester's social probation for Phi Sig, but discussion on the point revealed that money for the liquor was not taken from the fraternity treasury and that the fraternity has denied sponsorship of the party.

The members of the IFC executive committee and officers of Phi Sigma Kappa met after Monday night's meeting to discuss the issue and the committee will make its final recommendation at the next IFC meeting.

AMONG MY KINFOLK

My favorite cousin, Mandolin Glebe, a sweet, unspoiled country boy, has just started college. Today I got a letter from him which I will reprint here because I know Mandolin's problems are so much like your own. Mandolin writes:
Dear Mandolin (he thinks my name is Mandolin too),
I see by the college paper that you are writing a column for Marlboro Cigarettes. I think Marlboros are jim-dandy cigarettes with real nice tobacco and a ginger-peachy filter, and I want to tell you why I don't smoke them.
It all started the very first day I arrived at college. I was walking across the campus, swinging my paper valise and singing traditional airs like Blue Tail Fly and Death and Transfiguration, when all of a sudden I ran into this here collegiate-looking fellow with a monogram on his breast pocket. He asked me was I a freshman. I said yes. He asked me did I want to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd. I said yes. He said the only way to make these keen things happen was to join a fraternity. Fortunately he happened to have a pledge card with him, so he pricked my thumb and I signed. He didn't tell me the name of the fraternity or where it is located, but I suppose I'll find out when I go active.

She carried me to a chic French restaurant

Meanwhile this fellow comes around every week to collect the dues, which are $100, plus a $10 fine for missing the weekly meeting, plus a $5 assessment to buy a headstone for Spot, the late, beloved beagle who was the fraternity mascot.
I have never regretted joining the fraternity, because it is my dearest wish to be a BMOC and the envy of all the in crowd, but you can see that it is not cheap. It wouldn't be so bad if I slept at the frat house, but you must agree that I can't sleep at the house if I don't know where the house is.
I have rented a room which is not only grotesquely expensive, but it is not at all the kind of room I was looking for. I wanted someplace reasonably priced, clean, comfortable, and within easy walking distance of classes, the shopping district, and San Francisco and New York. What I found was a bedroom in the home of a local costermonger which is dingy, expensive, and uncomfortable—and I don't even get to use the bed till 7 a.m. when my landlord goes out to mong his costers.
Well anyhow, I got settled and the next thing I did, naturally, was to look for a girl. And I found her. Harnet, her name is, a beautiful creature standing just under seven feet high and weighing 385 pounds. I first spied her leaning against the statue of the Founder, dozing lightly. I talked to her for several hours without effect. Only when I mentioned dinner did she stir. Her milky little eyes opened, she raised a brawny arm, seized my nape, and carried me to a chic French restaurant called Le Clippoint where she consumed, according to my calculations, her own weight in chateaubriand.
After dinner she lapsed into a torpor from which I could not rouse her, no matter how I tried. I banged my glass with a fork, I pinched her great pendulous jowls, I rubbed the legs of my corduroy pants together. But nothing worked, and finally I slung her over my shoulder and carried her to the girls dorm, slipping several discs in the process.
Fortunately, medical care for students is provided free at the college infirmary. All I had to pay for were a few extras, like X-rays, anaesthesia, forceps, hemostats, scalpels, catgut, linen, towels, amortization, and nurses. They would not, however, let me keep the nurses.
So, dear cousin, it is lack of funds, not lack of enthusiasm, that is keeping me from Marlboro Cigarettes—dear, good Marlboros with their fine blend of choice tobaccos and their pure white Selectrate filter and their soft pack and their flip top box.
Well, I must close now. My pencil is wore out and I can't afford another. Keep 'em flying.
Yr. cousin Mandolin Glebe

The hearts of the makers of Marlboro go out to poor Mandolin—and to poor anyone else who is missing out on our fine cigarettes—available in all 50 of these United States.

The coming election for student senate president is most important because the person elected will determine the direction that the new senate will take. The new senate was not envisioned as someone's private tool. It is, rather, to be the spokesman and leader of all students, protecting our interests and defining our responsibilities and rights.

Naturally, since I accepted the nomination to the senate presidency I feel that I have the qualifications to be an effective leader. But it would be presumptuous of me to ask for your support on the basis of my own personal feeling. Accordingly I have submitted an outline of some of the legislation that I would propose if elected senate president.

1. Investigation and recommendations concerning needed reform of existing women's regulations.
2. Student senate participation in the planning of new housing units in an effort to introduce a resident fellow system.
3. Continuing effort by the senate to bring order and consistency to administrative regulations. This would include the reestablishment of the "seven and seven" committee.
4. Effective increase in the responsibility and independence of such groups as IFC, AWS, and IHC.

Gonsalves

But, in order for this group to be successful in its goals of maintaining a representative form of student government and a voice of the student body, I feel the Senate should begin to focus its attention on affairs and problems pertinent to the State of Rhode Island and even more so the University of Rhode Island.

In the past the Senate has spread itself out far too thin. It has tried to cope with too many problems and affairs which at this time have no bearing on the University or the students of the university whatsoever. Maybe a few of these problems or affairs should be brought up under Senate business, but I strongly feel that in this all important Senate transition, the body should attain a firm foundation as a student governing body, and handle problems at its own doorstep before worrying about others.

I feel we should work on problems along the lines of student taxes, off-campus housing, the Union bookstore, drinking, and most important of all, In Loco Parentis, particularly in the realm of expulsion, right to petition and the general relationship between the students and the administration; as well as other problems both on the academic and social level.

Clingham

The transition that the Student Senate is about to make will, in my opinion, bring a lot more interest into the operations of the Senate and the decisions arrived on by the Senate. It would be my main aim to keep an awareness of the fact that each Senator is representing a particular student segment and the student body in general, continually sharp in the minds of the Senators.

It is my position that the Student Senate at URI should legislate, represent and champion the cause of the student body at URI. As a secondary aim I would keep an awareness of, support where no conflict of aims exists, and participate in national student movements and organizations.

It would be my position to support the administration when their stand on a subject is in compliance with the existing views of the Student Senate, but to oppose the administration when its actions show complete disregard for the desires and aims of the Student Body, realizing that both the administration and student body are under the control of the State Legislature.

It is my feeling that this whole concept of control of women students should be investigated by a committee made up of interested Senators and other campus leaders to determine the reasoning and objectivity behind existing rules and regulations. It would be the purpose of this committee to come up with some workable solutions to existing problems along these lines.

The Student Senate and the student body at URI need a good public relations department to show the State that everything the students do at URI isn't bad.

In many ways the story of the Thunderbird is one of the most unusual in the automobile business. The whole idea of the car was born at one of the great European automobile shows. The then president of our company pointed to some of the small, lush sports cars that are always a center of attention at such shows and asked his companion, "Why can't we build something like these?"

The companion, who later became a vice president of the company, said, "It just so happens I have one on the boards. I'll show it to you when we get back to Detroit." Then as fast as he could discreetly get to a transatlantic telephone he called his assistant and told him, "Remember that car we've been talking about? Finish those sketches on it."

The Thunderbird became one of the few cars ever built that was produced essentially as the original sketches presented it. Most cars undergo countless changes in the design period. But there was a natural clarity and cleanness to the Thunderbird design that immediately captured all of us at Ford.

It was probably this clean, sharp look that won so many friends so fast when the car went into production. That first Thunderbird had its drawbacks. For example, it was too soft-sprung for true sports-car handling. But, the truth is, it was not designed in the European tradition of the fast performance car. Some people called it a sports car but we never did. We called it a "personal" car; a small, fairly luxurious car that was fun to look at and fun to drive. It had its own integrity: it was one alone.

We built the Thunderbird as a bellwether car for Ford. It was our intention to test new ideas before we put them into our Fords, Fairlanes and Falcons. The new Ford ride and Swing-Away steering wheel appeared first on the Thunderbird, for instance. However, we never foresaw the extraordinary influence Thunderbird would have on the whole automobile business here and abroad. Almost everybody offers the Thunderbird bucket seats these days. And the Thunderbird look is the most decisive styling of the '60s.

The Thunderbird is a classic, made so by a peculiar blend of magic ingredients of which we would love to know the secret. We're building cars right now we don't hope will become classics, but the truth is, we don't make classics, we make cars. People make the car a classic. And that's the story of the Thunderbird.

America's liveliest,
most care-free cars!

Butler Named Baseball Boss

Robert A. (Bob) Butler of 93 Grove Street, Lincoln, who coached the URI soccer team last fall, has been named interim baseball coach at the University to fill the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of Pat Stark. The latter, who also served as assistant football coach, has been named defensive coach of football at Harvard and will assume his duties April 1.

Butler, who starred as a baseball player in the Blackstone Valley, has been one of the top umpires in the area for the past 15 years. He has umpired the NCAA finals for the last three years. He also is a scout for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Rams will play a 16-game schedule, opening with Northeastern at Boston, April 6. The rest of the schedule follows: April 16, Brown; 18, at Springfield; 20, at New Hampshire; 26 and 27, Vermont; 20, New Hampshire.

May 2, at Massachusetts; 4, at Providence; 7, Connecticut; 8, at Brown; 10 and 11, at Maine; 14, Providence College; 16, Massachusetts; and 18, at Connecticut.

Rams Show Well In UConn Relays

The University of Rhode Island track team under the able direction of coach Tom Russell placed a creditable fifth in the 14 team University of Connecticut relays held at Storrs Saturday.

The Rams amassed a total of 24 points as compared to winning Yale's 54 point total. The local opposition Brown and Providence College fared much lower with the Friars getting but six points and Brown only four.

Frank Nesbitt was the highest placer for the Rams running second in the low hurdles behind Mel Parsons of UConn. Clay Clatur finished third in the pole vault with the winning height at 12-6.

Dick Carle, speed merchant from nearby Massachusetts finished second for Rhody in the 60 yard dash just being edged by Wendell Motley sprint star for the Yale Bulldogs.

In the broad jump Nesbitt, who was the high point man for Russell's boys, took a fourth place and was immediately followed by Heff also of the Rams.

Bob Simpson took a fifth in the high jump where a winning height of 6-4 was posted. In the sprint medley relay the Rhode Island quartet finished a close third on the basis of time performances finishing in 3:41 as compared to the winning time of 3:38.8.

In the two mile relay Rhody finished fourth with Yale taking the top spot. Nesbitt finished third in the high hurdles also and gave one of the top all-round performances at the meet.

Sailors To Race For Cup Saturday

by Pete Skeffington

URI's sailing team, which will race for the Macmillan cup this coming Saturday at Annapolis, Md., will be in operation without the aid of their usual navigator, Tom Squibb.

Squibb will be unable to attend the meet because of family problems. Rhody team captain Joe Friesella will serve as a substitute.

Bob Morton, designated team skipper for the race, does not see the loss of Squibb as a highly determining factor in the outcome of the race, although he admits that the team is under a slight handicap without him.

Coach William Ferrante could not be reached for comment.

URI Track Season Nears Open, Russell Sees Unlimited Potential

by Russ Haber

The University of Rhode Island track team, led by many outstanding returning veterans and a handful of promising sophomores, will soon hit the cinders in an attempt to win back the Yankee Conference crown which has eluded the Rams the past two years. After capturing the championship twelve straight years up until 1960, Rhody was runnerup to Maine in 1961 and 1962.

Coach Tom Russell and assistant Art Sherman are optimistic about this years teams' "fairly good chance" to once again regain the Yankee Conference title. "If the potential materializes," Russell recently said, "we should win."

This potential is spread throughout every event. In the sprints, Freddy Merina, who has run very well lately, and Dick Carle are ready. The latter was undefeated as a freshman last year, with his best time being 9.8. Those two will probably run both the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes. The 220 yard high hurdles have three very outstanding men, all of whom could rank high in the conference.

Frank Nesbitt and Al Lavender, both sophomores, set the school record in this event last year, in 23.8 seconds. Nesbitt has run spectacularly during the indoor season, losing in a trial heat to world champion Hayes Jones during the NYAC meet.

The third of the trio is Dutch Jackquart, who returns from a stay in the army. When Jackquart was a sophomore at URI he won the YC championships.

In the 440, Tony Alessandro should be the Rams leading entrant. Marshall Gerstenblatt, also having a successful indoor season, will show the way in the half and the mile. Gerstenblatt placed forth in the YC 880 race last year with a time of 1:56.9. His time in the mile was 4:28 and he hopes to improve on this mark.

Outstanding runner and captain of this years team, Bob Lund should be one of the best two milers in the conference. His time of 9:38 placed him in finals last year. Lund has constantly improved and will be a definite asset to this years title chances.

Even without John Gonsalves at full strength, the pole vault should be a very successful URI event. This athlete is attempting to regain from after a badly broken ankle. Coach Russell says of this fiber-glass wonder: "John Gonsalves could easily be the best pole vaulter in New England." It is almost certain that if he gets into shape he will be able to break the school record of 14'4", held by Bob Patton ('62). Behind Gonsalves is Art Fleury, a 13 ft. vaulter and Clay Clatur, a promising sophomore.

Carl Rule is the school's best shot putter and could be one of the leaders in the YC. The defending champion and runnerup in last years javelin finals are represented by Bob Marshall, who set the URI record of 212' 10 1/2", and Ed Fracassa respectively. Dick Garreau was fourth in last year's discus championships and is working hard to improve his standing.

Bob Lund, Captain of the URI track forces is mainstay in the long distance events, one and two mile runs.

Track is a strange thing at URI. This team is the most consistently winning squad at the University, but is a sport which carries little student support. How does this affect coach Russell?

He says: "I'm disappointed that the boys don't get the recognition they deserve. They work hard and harder than any other team and for this reason alone they should get more student recognition."
